Robond designs lock for fuel tank

Robond says it can protect fuel and control tank vandalism with its Fuel Tank Lock, a patented security device that locks from inside the tank. The device uses the ABLOY key system, which is used in many high-security facilities such as government buildings, ATM machines and airports, according to the company.

The Fuel Tank Lock, which the company demonstrated at the Mid-America Trucking Show in Louisville, Ky., has been tested under severe climate and road conditions.
